Customer Reviews

Like the other reviews say, the cards are a little flimsy. The cards are about the size of an iPhone 6. Big enough for the kids to see but small enough to hold in your hand. There are two cards per letter with different pictures and words. For example, the letter A has an Apple card and an Alligator card. The front of the cards with the pictures are glossy while the back with the wording is plain unglossed paper. They are easily bent and the corners get dented quick. The "Parent Card" looks like the ink on the other side bled through. However these are perfect for teaching my almost 2 year old letters and words that go with. There are some easy words like Cat and Snake and also some more advanced words like Xylophone and Ostrich. I have attached a photo of some of the contents. Showing the glossy front and the unglossed back, as well as the cards that show all the letters with corresponding pictures and words. These cards also include a free gift which is an online book on their website. These are excellent for the price and as long as they aren't left around for my daughter to grab and bend them, they'll last us a good while.

We ordered these to replace a set that our two-year old has been rough with. We bought these specifically because the cards shown in the photo are the same exact ones we have. We received a very similar set from the same brand, but they are not the same.

I have other flash card brands, and I like these the least. They aren't as sturdy and tough...meaning my toddlers can easily bend and warp them. Would not order again.

I bought this for use with advance alzheimers patients to use as a mental stimulation activity. The cards are of the thickness of a good set of playing cards. The letters and pictures are a good size regardless of who you are doing the activity with. I especially like the fact that none of the pictures or alphabet cards have the answer on them. So many cards I've looked at had the name of the item underneath the picture. If the person can read, well it defeats the purpose. When I found these I was extremely happy!

Excellent all around flash cards. My son has learned much from these cards. They're easy to read and easy for him to hold. Pros: No frilly designs--Just the letter, corresponding object, and name of said object. Objects are well painted and thought out. Helps toddler with learning new words and learning the alphabet! Sturdy cards Cons: Need to find a way to keep them from ending up everywhere..... Overall: A great buy, one I'll happily make again if need be.

I purchased these alphabet flashcards for my 20 month old grandson who has some slight learning delays. I purchased 2 packs so that we could play matching games with them, as well as identification and speaking the words of the fun, colorful pictures, and the upper and lower case letters. The cards are more durable than I imagined they would be, as they have been crumpled by little hands and chewed on by a little mouth. We have a lot of fun with these.

These are just perfect for practicing the abcs with my son! We also turned it into a matching game, can match a picture to the letter it starts with or the uppercase to the lowercase. I have him spell his name or small words with them. There really is alot of possibilities of things you can do with these cards! They where cheap fast shipping im very happy with this prodcut.

My daughter was behind in school on learning her letters.. shes the youngest in class. So we got these to work with her at home on. She loved the game( And the attention) and soon was doing the flash cards herself! she caught back up to the other kids in 4K an now is moving on to reading.
