Customer Reviews

After a year full with a box office flop and a very public break-up from his glamorous girlfriend, Hollywood heartthrob Jackson Wyatt is returning home to Fargo, North Dakota for Christmas with his family. His sister Mel, director of a community theatre, has persuaded him to take the male lead in a short play while he's at home, although so far she hasn't told him who his female co-star will be. Natasha Curran has also had a difficult year. Her father suffered a heart attack and is still not in good health. Natasha, who teaches drama and music at a local school, is trying to help her parents out financially as much as possible and is struggling to make ends meet. Her best friend Mel has asked her to appear in a short play opposite Mel's brother Jack. It's eight years since Jack went to Hollywood leaving his 20-year-old girlfriend Natasha with a broken heart. In this sweet seasonal read Kimberly Rae Jordan brings us a tale using the much-loved romance novel device of a second chance at love. As high school sweethearts, Jack and Natasha had thought that they'd be together forever. When Jack left to seek his fame and fortune in Hollywood however, neither of them had the emotional maturity for a long distance relationship. Jack was seduced by his dream and Natasha was left nursing a broken heart. I found the book a little slow to start with but was hooked as the story began to unfold. In fact, in a world where there seem to be so many books out there about explosive romances with billionaires, it was nice to read a gentle, slow-paced story where people do ordinary things like shop in Walmart and eat in McDonalds (even if one of them is a Hollywood movie star!). I'm not saying that nothing happens in this story as there are plenty of beautiful, poignant and romantic moments.

Jack is an interesting character he's a master of trade he is someone of a super hero you would say someone like Super man he is Jack Davis by day a business man Jack Wyatt by night an actor a gorgeous hunk paparazzi are always following him he has to disguise himself they were always watching to see what women he was dating As his flight was landing his twin sister was there to pick him up from the airport once he arrived in his town the people were there to greet him he was delighted. Jack's sister Melina asked if he didn't mind would he be interested in playing a part in her play Jack couldn't refuse his sister's rehearsal started on Monday Melina looking for a leading lady to play the part of Della she thought about Natasha, she would be excellent for the part because of her long hair. After finding out that Jack would be her partner she became discontented but since Melina was her best friend she wouldn't turn her down as Natasha pondered she thought about how she would react towards Jack the one who end their relationship he never gave her an explanation the one who crush her heart she's wondering will old feeling began to surface seeing Jack for the first time out of eight years was unbearable the first time she saw him he were tall and thin this time he's more built as if he been lifting weights more handsome than ever Natasha couldn't contain herself but she haveto keep her composure Jack realize seeing Natasha was the best thing that happen to him now he regret letting her go.
